Mrs. Donald Crysdale, already proficient on water skis, demonstrates how easy it is with a one-arm jump. Beginners find they need the use of both hands until they attain the fine sense of balance necessary for a smoothly-styled jump.—(See story on page 6.)

How to fly through the air with the greatest of ease is graphically demonstrated by Donald Crysdale. Action shot caught Mr. Crysdale just before he had an unexpected plunge into Pat Bay waters. Landing well is a trick which even experts cannot always manage.

Invasion by Nationalists Strikes Into Red China

Sortie From Burma Hits Yunnan Province

RANGOON, Burma, July 27 (AP)—A Chinese Nationalist army force has struck 65 miles into Communist China from its refugee base in Burma and seized a 100-mile-long frontier strip in Yunnan province.

The Nationalists have captured one airfield and are reported trying to build another.

Communist troops in larger force are counter-attacking from headquarters bases at Paoshan on the Burma-China Suiwell Road of the second World War.

The fighting is about 200 miles west and slightly south of Kunming, the Redfield Yunnan capital.

Although the Nationalist penetration is relatively small-scale, it is regarded as the most effective action on the mainland this year by forces linked with Chiang Kai-shek's Formosa regime.

The Nationalist force was authoritatively said to number about 15,000 regular troops in three columns. They are commanded by Li Mi, displaced Nationalist governor of Yunnan and one of western China's best-known generals. Li's sortie has been going on quietly for three months. He and his troops had come to Burma as refugees fleeing from the Red Chinese.

Their re-entry into Yunnan was prodded along by Burmese troops, Burma torn internally by a Red-tinged civil war, has recognized the Red China regime of Mao Tse-tung at Peking and is officially neutral in the China conflict.

His three columns fanned out northeast of Lashio, a big transport point inside Burma on the old Burma Road to China.

The north column took the Red's Kengwa airfield. The southern columns ranged about 100 miles south and seized Menghai. First resistance was reported light.

Supply Ship At Churchill

CHURCHILL, Man., July 27 (C.P.).—The government supply ship C. D. Howe docked here yesterday, the first vessel to reach this Hudson Bay port this year after navigating Hudson Strait.

Athabaskan Leaves Here For War Zone Thursday

The Canadian destroyer Athabaskan will sail from her home port of Esquimalt at 3 p.m. Thursday for her second tour of duty in the Korean war zone, navy officials announced yesterday.

On arrival the Athabaskan, with Cmdr. Dudley G. King of Victoria in command, will relieve the east coast destroyer Huron.

The 250 men in the ship's company are almost all replacements for those who sailed her back here May 17, after nine months' operation in the Far East.

Former skipper of the craft, Cmdr. Robert Welland, has an executive post ashore and most of his crew are now taking training courses. However, vast majority of the men who will sail with the ship are from B.C.

After her return from Korea the Athabaskan went into refit in the Esquimalt dockyard. She was at sea last night undergoing trials preparatory to her departure for Pearl Harbor, where she will once again come under United Nations command.

It is expected that friends and relatives of members of the crew will be allowed in the dockyard before sailing time.

Matchbox Flares, Child Hurt

A two-year-old girl was seriously burned yesterday while playing with matches in her home. St. Joseph's Hospital authorities said her condition was only fair last night.

The girl is Theresa Meikle, 1117 Esquimalt Road. She is the daughter of Murray Meikle. The child apparently was playing with a box of matches which caught fire. It is believed her parents were in another room at the time. She was rescued by her mother, who also received burns.

It is believed the child suffered first and second-degree burns.

Buffer Not Yet Settled

UN TRUCE CAMP NEAR KAESONG, July 28 (Saturday) (INS).—Admission negotiators met for the 12th time at Kaesong today and pushed forward agreement on a cease-fire buffer zone amid forecasts that the shooting in Korea will end within a week.

One U.N. officer at the allied truce camp predicted settlement of the all-important cease-fire line of demarcation by tomorrow. Possibility of similar speedy agreement on two other main issues—supervision of the armistice and exchange of prisoners—led informed sources to suggest an order silencing the guns on both sides will come by August 4.

FINAL STAGE

There was even hope among officials at the truce camp that the Kaesong cease-fire talks may be entering their final stage even though the five-point agenda was agreed upon only last Thursday.

The Communists presumably answered Allied proposals on just where the demarcation line should be and how wide a demilitarized buffer zone should be created.

Early in the cease-fire conference, the Reds announced one of their objectives would be a 20-mile demilitarized zone extending 10 miles north and 10 miles south of the 38th parallel.

TOUCHY PROBLEM

But a line of demarcation on the 38th parallel is believed to be objectionable to the U.N. command for at least two reasons.

First, the Allies are reluctant to withdraw their forces from the natural defense lines they now hold in some places far north of the parallel.

Secondly, the South Koreans are vehemently opposed to any settlement on the old artificial boundary which separated Red North Korea from Republican South Korea before the war.

Mr. Williams was first elected

Williams May Seek Post; Cabeldu Definitely Won't

Edward Williams, former city alderman for 14 consecutive years may seek election to city council as mayor or alderman in December.

Queried on the possibility yesterday, the well-known Victorian said:

"I have been approached but it is much too early for me to make a decision. I am giving the matter consideration. Anyway, this is fishing weather. It's too early to talk about elections."

Mr. Williams has been asked by some citizens to run for mayor. Others want him to seek election again as an alderman.

"If I did decide to seek election, I can't say at this time whether it would be as mayor or alderman," he said.

EMPHATIC DENIAL

Meanwhile, Brig. F. N. Cabeldu, a former city alderman, has emphatically denied a report that he will seek the mayoralty.

"The report is completely wrong," said Brig. Cabeldu. "I definitely am not considering running for the mayor's chair. There is not even a possibility. I don't know where such a report could have originated."

If Mr. Williams decides to enter the mayoralty contest, it will bring to five the number of candidates expected to seek the position of chief magistrate. Mayor Percy E. George, Ald. Aubrey Kent and Percy Hunter have announced their candidature, and Ald. Dr. J. D. Hunter is considering the matter.

Legendary Curse Beaten

Injured Prospector, 71 Makes Way to Safety

NEW WESTMINSTER, July 27 (C.P.).—The "curse" of the legendary Lost Mine of Pitt Lake has been beaten.

Duncan McPhaden, 71-year-old prospector, ended four pain-racked days with his arrival at hospital here today suffering from injuries after a plunge from a 20-foot cliff.

A half-century legend says searchers for the Lost Mine have always met death since its discovery perished with the secret of its location.

Prospecting in a wild mountain district 30 miles north of here, McPhaden plunged from the cliff onto a pile of rock and rubble Tuesday.

He crawled three miles through heavy brush to his cabin, his legs temporarily paralyzed. The journey took all day.

McPhaden nursed his wounds until today when he crawled another three miles to the lake shore from where he rowed to his motor boat and crossed the lake to a tourist lodge.

He was brought to the head of the lake by speed boat and from there to hospital by ambulance. He had suffered back and chest injuries.

"I found a piece of toast and a few things to eat in the cabin," he said. "I had water to drink."

McPhaden, former deputy court registrar here, has been prospecting in the rocky Pitt Lake country for the last 10 years.

Dairies May Try Cutting Deliveries

Skip-a-day milk deliveries are being considered by Victoria distributors as a method of trimming costs to offset a possible further increase in milk prices, it was learned yesterday.

City milk distributors have been co-operating in a study of ways to cut costs since the last rise in milk prices went into effect early this year.

It was held unlikely that any system of alternate-day delivery would be attempted until late this year.

The system would be tried on an experimental basis in a limited area before a decision was made to extend it over all city distribution routes, it was disclosed.

Before skip-a-day deliveries could be tried out in Victoria, even on an experimental basis, distributors favoring the plan would have to go before the Provincial Milk Board so that all sides could be heard.

During the past week seven Vancouver dairies have appeared before the milk board to ask for the right to make deliveries every second day to west-end homes.

Spokesman for the dairies, Dr. Robert Clark, University of British Columbia economist, said alternate day deliveries would save money.

He added, however, that if the inflationary trend continues, "the dairies will ultimately have to come back and ask for an increase."

TWO CENTS LESS

Price of the standard quart of milk in Vancouver is 19 cents, compared with the Victoria price of 21 cents.

Dr. Clark told the board that few if any United States cities still have daily deliveries.

"We are behind the times in not having cut down the number of deliveries per week," he declared. Dr. Clark said Vancouver dairies wished to try deliveries every other day as an experiment in economy.

Some dairies are already losing money and unless the present trend is stopped all will be going in the red, he said.

COMPULSORY

He pointed out that the U.S. government had made staggered deliveries compulsory during the Second World War, and most American cities retained the system when controls were lifted.

Dr. Clark said it had been estimated that if some of the U.S. cities returned to daily deliveries the price of milk would go up 1.3 cents a quart and one-third more retail routes would have to be added.

The Vancouver dairies had estimated that 60 per cent of their west end customers now were taking milk only every other day, he said. This would mean no great change resulting from skip-a-day deliveries.

ALTERNATIVE

Everett Crowley, spokesman for two Vancouver dairies who oppose the skip-a-day delivery plan, told the board that the seven dairies promoting the plan should voluntarily cut distribution costs before "forcing it on the public."

"In fairness to the consumer, we feel some considerable saving can be made by the dairies themselves in distribution costs," declared Mr. Crowley. "Before the public is forced to accept an every-other-day delivery service, every effort should be made by the dairies concerned to realize these savings."

In the Vancouver experimental plan, the west end district would be divided into two areas, with deliveries made in one area one day and in the second area the following day.

Seaway Plan Split May Be Considered

OTTAWA, July 27 (C.P.).—As the federal cabinet prepared to meet twice next week, the possibility arose today that the government might consider splitting the navigation and power aspects of the St. Lawrence seaway project.

This means the dominion, now that the United States Congress again has shelved joint construction of the long-debated scheme, might go ahead alone with the power development and leave the seaway stage in abeyance.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier said today the cabinet, in a fresh appraisal of its overall position on the scheme, now might have to consider a separation of the seaway and power production phases, though it long has advocated that the two go together and that Canada and the U.S. develop them.

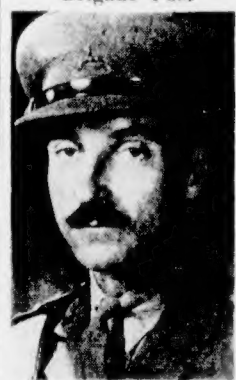

ALBANY, July 27.—Douglas Dent 2½-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Dent, 800 Montrose Street, Port Alberni, drowned this afternoon in the Somass River at River Road Park.

The youngster was playing with other children in the water. His mother was at the park.

Dr. C. Pitts and the Alberni volunteer fire department inhalator crew worked over the youngster, but to no avail.

The body is at Stevens' Funeral Home pending arrangements.

Brigade Post

LIEUT.-COL. H. A. PHILLIPS

Victoria army officer, has been named to command the administrative unit of Canada's 27th Brigade, expected to go to Europe this fall. Born in India, he served with the First Canadian Division during the Second World War as a senior staff officer. He leaves an army administrative job in Halifax to take his new command.

Spencer Gift Still Valuable Asset

House Held Unsuitable for Priceless Paintings

By JIM NESBITT

Because the Spencer home is not fireproof, the big art galleries of North America probably would not lend their original paintings for showing there, provincial archivist-librarian Willard E. Ireland believes.

"But certainly I think the city should take the home as an art centre. A proper fireproof gallery can be built in the grounds," he said. "It would not need to be elaborate."

A non-fireproof gallery is always a risk, Mr. Ireland said, and owners of original paintings just will not take it. He feels sure the National Gallery in Ottawa and leading U.S. galleries would not send their paintings for exhibition in a wooden building.

"The Provincial Archives would be hesitant to lend the Emily Carr," he said. "Such paintings just cannot be replaced. Insurance is absolutely no good."

HISTORIC ASSET

However, the Spencer home would be a decided asset to Victoria, Mr. Ireland believes. He said it has historic associations with early days that should not be let go.

"In other cities such homes are preserved," he said, "and I think we should preserve this one. But it's definitely a matter for the city, not for the arts centre."

Mr. Ireland looked back into history to find the Spencer home was built in 1890 for banker A. A. Green, the father of Dr. F. V. Green, ex-M.L.A. for Cranbrook.

The Colonial of Jan. 1, 1891, in a list of new homes built the previous year, noted: "A. A. Green, residence, with coach house, $30,000."

Mr. Green called his fine new home "Gypseywick," and he moved his family into it from his cottage in Birdseye Walk, where the Provincial Museum is today. He was not long in the big house, however, before he died.

Mrs. Green and her children moved away, and for some years the mansion stood empty.

In the late '30's, Cary Castle, the Government House of the day, burned to the ground. The government rented the Green house for $50 a month as a temporary residence for Lieutenant-Governor Thomas McInnis. Later Robert Bevan, Premier of B.C. (1882-83) and mayor of Victoria (1892-93-97), bought the house and sold it to David Spencer, who continued to rent it to the government.

Lieutenant-Governor McInnis lived in the house a year, and when he left office the new lieutenant-governor, Sir Henri Joly de Lotbiniere, moved in.

In October of 1901 the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York, later King George V and Queen Mary, were visiting Victoria. The Spencer home was not big enough for them and their suite and they took over the Mount Baker Hotel on the Oak Bay waterfront.

Sir Henri and Lady Joly gave a dinner in the Spencer home for the Royal Couple. Of all the guests at that brilliant event only Mrs. E. G. Prior is still living.

In 1904, when the present Government House was ready, the David Spencer family took occupancy of their big Moss Street place, leaving their old home at Belleville and Government, recently torn down to make room for a civil servants' parking lot.

Mr. Spencer, a Welshman, called his new home "Lan Dderwen," the name it still bears.

"A fine home, with such an interesting historical background should certainly not become a rooming house," Mr. Ireland said. "That has been the fate of too many of our fine old homes. As an art centre the Spencer home would be a decided asset to the city of great benefit to all our people and of wide interest to visitors. It's an opportunity that may not come again."

ALLABOARD

By G. E. Mortimore

Traffic accidents have killed eight persons in Greater Victoria this year. Five of them have died in a sudden flurry of crashes during the last two weeks.

The courts will say who is to blame for these deaths, if anybody. To add anything further on that subject here would be impertinent and probably dangerous.

But as a citizen dedicated to the great proposition that people should be kept alive whenever possible, I might dare to say something about road mishaps in general.

Here are some dark highway facts culled from the 1951 accident book issued by The Travelers' Insurance Company.

Included some of them before, but this seems like a good time to dredge them up again. Although they are drawn from United States reports, I think they fit Canada equally well.

Excessive speed is by far the greatest cause of fatal accidents. Speed was blamed officially for 50 per cent of all accidents in which someone was killed during 1950.

Driving on the wrong side of the road, the second largest cause, killed 18 per cent of the victims.

More than 81 per cent of fatal accidents happened in clear weather. Seventy-five per cent of fatal accidents happened when the road was perfectly dry. More fatal accidents happened on the open highway than anywhere else. Nearly 90 per cent of cars involved in fatal accidents were traveling straight (not turning, or slowing down).

Ninety per cent of drivers in all accidents were men. Twenty per cent of all drivers are under 25, but this group accounted for a disproportionate number of fatal accidents—27 per cent.

Ninety per cent of cars involved in fatal accidents were in "apparently good condition" mechanically.

Clear weather, dry road, open highway, traveling straight, car in good shape. That removes all the alibi, even the poor ones. Speed is the big killer. That's why we have speed limits, which too many drivers ignore.

Cut down speed and you cut down traffic deaths. That's part of the solution, but not all. Winding narrow roads, such as the Island Highway through Death Valley, certainly contribute. They should be straightened and widened as soon as taxpayers' reluctance and official sluggishness allow.

However, bad drivers make bad roads 10 times more dangerous. Heavier penalties and a closer check on speeders might be worth while.

Drive cars have a governor which keeps their speed down to 45 miles an hour. In British Columbia the law requires that governors be installed. But one nation-wide drive company is planning to install governors in all cars, even in provinces where it isn't compulsory.

Why? Because they found their accident rate went down sharply after governors were put in.

People convicted of dangerous driving sometimes lose their licenses. It might be just as effective to let them keep their licenses, but restrict them to driving cars equipped with governors set at 40 miles an hour. Governors cost about $30 to install, and this would be done at the driver's expense. The same penalty could be imposed for speeding on the second offense.

Slow road-hogs can be a menace too, and the proposal to control their sounds like a good one. But speed is a graver problem.

Our cars are built to American specifications, with vast bodies and engines and a reserve of speed which the motorist is tempted to use. Why can't we have a Canadian car, built for narrow, winding Canadian roads?

Blue Skies Ahead Still For Victoria

The forecast is for sunny skies today with no break in the weather in sight, according to Weatherman William Mackie.

Mr. Mackie, who finds he can't get the "Blue Skies" out of his head these days, would like nothing better than to be able to forecast rain.

But there is no hope, he admits.

"We have gone longer than this without rain," he said. "In 1926 there was no rain between June 15 and August 15. At least we had enough to measure on June 11 and July 6."

Hours of sunshine for the month to date, with five days more to go are 316.8. July, 1929, had 394.7 hours of sunshine.

SPANISH OUTPOST

Costa Rica, an independent republic of Central America, was part of the Spanish dominions until 1821.

Besides about 1,000 miles of permanent roads, Ecuador has 2,500 miles of roads which are open only in the dry season.

Drowning Termed Accident

A coroner's jury yesterday brought in a verdict of accidental death in connection with the drowning of Sgt. Ormond Simmonds, Gordon Head Army Camp, at Thetis Lake last Wednesday.

Coroner E. C. Hart said the soldier apparently went swimming with three other men. He was the first to enter the water. Before the others arrived he had disappeared.

Junior Tars Need Officers

More officers are needed immediately for Victoria's fast-growing Navy League Junior Sea Cadet Corps.

Lieut. Gerald Bishop, commanding officer of the corps, reports a membership of about 100 boys between the ages of 12 and 14, and "a serious shortage of officers to provide guidance and direction."

Men who like working with boys and are interested in seamanship may phone Lieut. Bishop at Empire 5227.

The corps has its headquarters at the foot of Robert Street, Esquimalt. Summer recess will end Sept. 5 when Wednesday evening parades will be resumed.

No Difficulty Seen in Accommodating Record School Enrollment This Fall

No difficulties are seen in accommodating 12,000 students, 500 more than last year, who are expected to enroll in Victoria's schools this September.

The increase, estimated by J. E. K. English, senior municipal inspector of schools, on a comparison of registration of elementary school beginners and attendance in other years, will bring attendance to an all-time high.

Larger percentage increases have been handled by the city in other years without major problems.

To Esquimalt high school will not be completed by then, however.

Fifty new teachers will be added to the system this year, bringing the total staff to 430, 20 more than last year. A few teachers still are needed in the elementary schools, but most vacancies already have been filled and staff arrangements made.

According to Mr. English, the difficulty is finding acceptable teachers to add to the staff, as lower than in many parts of the province.

"The climate helps, but it still takes a lot of work to get the type of teacher we want," says Mr. English.

The new Cadboro Bay elementary school and additions to Strawberry Vale school will provide space for 170 more students. Both will be ready for occupancy when school opens. The addition Forest Service and the Ketikan Pulp and Paper Co. It is the largest sale of timber ever made by the forest service.

The timber will be sufficient to supply a pulp mill of 300,000 daily capacity for 50 years. It is the Tongass National Forest of southeast Alaska.

Lyle P. Watts, chief of the forest service, said the sale culminates 30 years of efforts by the department to establish a pulp industry in Alaska.

"It will create a new and permanent industry based on harvesting of the timber under scientific forest management," he said in a statement.

The plant will be built at Ward Cove near Ketikan. It will employ about 800 persons.

Big Surplus Piles Up In Canada's Coeffers

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—The federal government, budgeting for a 1961-62 surplus of $30,000,000, piled up a surplus of $36,115,137 in the first three months of the fiscal year. It was disclosed tonight.

The monthly treasury report, issued by the office of Finance Minister D. C. Abbott who is on holiday, showed that revenues totaled $86,728,698 and expenditures $50,613,561 in the three-month period.

In 1959-60, Mr. Abbott budgeted for a surplus of $15,000,000 and wound up with one of $203,456,000.

NOTE OF CAUTION

In his budget speech last April 10, Mr. Abbott estimated 1961-62 revenues at $3,730,000,000 and expenditures at $3,700,000,000. When treasury reports for the first and second months of the year indicated that his estimated surplus of $30,000,000 would be greatly exceeded, he sounded a note of caution.

He said expenditures in the latter part of the fiscal year likely would wipe out much of the surplus built up in the early months. Figures for the first three months of 1961-62 reflected some of the tax increases provided for in the last budget.

Individual income tax collections totaled $2,568,800,000, an increase of $79,400,000 over the corresponding three months of 1959-60. The increase was partly due to higher personal incomes.

Squadron Sets Safety Record

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—More than 2,500,000 flying miles without a single casualty or serious accident is the record of the RCAF's 426 Transport Squadron in a year of operations on the Korean airlift.

The RCAF reported today that since the big, four-engine North Stars of 426 took off from McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash., on their first air-lift flights July 27, 1950, the squadron has rolled up 2,599,000 miles of flying.

Almost 280 trips have been made carrying more than 6,000 personnel and almost 2,700,000 pounds of freight and mail. And the flying has been done in all kinds of weather.

Oddities

PASSAIC, N.J., July 27 (AP)—Mrs. Margaret Duras phoned police today and said a woman neighbor called her vile names. A patrolman investigated and found that the neighbor was a deaf mute. Mrs. Duras said the name-calling was done via sign language.

No complaint was signed.

DIRBAN, South Africa, July 27 (Reuters)—Warning from the Durban Lifesavers' Association: Girls who feign drowning so as to be rescued by beach lifeguards may be charged with obstruction.

LONG BEACH, N.Y., July 27 (AP)—Police awakened Eugene C. Shanklin at 2:30 a.m. to tell him they had frightened away a burglar. The would-be thief had dragged a ladder over a fence, across the backyard and placed it against the house.

"Shouldn't have gone to so much trouble," yawned Shanklin. "I left the front door open."

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., July 27 (CP)—Fire chief Bob Allen stood beside the old market shed here last night while his firemen poured gasoline on the old shed to give the civil defense students a demonstration.

The chief threw a match. When the first wave of flames subsided, Chief Allen stood minus his eyebrows, eyelashes and a prized forelock of hair.

U.S. Europe Force To Total 400,000

WASHINGTON, July 27 (AP)—Defense Secretary George C. Marshall told Congress today the administration now plans to have 400,000 troops in Europe in 1952—nearly double the number previously estimated.

Marshall also disclosed that United States allies in Europe have promised they will have 2,500,000 men under arms next year and will be able to follow 5,000,000 men into the field within 90 days after the outbreak of any new war.

Marshall's revised figures came as a surprise to Congressmen, who revealed that his testimony last February 15 said there were no plans to send more than 100,000 additional ground troops to Europe to bolster the two American divisions already there.

FOUR DIVISIONS

He said then the new contingents would include 72,000 men in four combat divisions—plus some 25,000 supporting units—and would raise United States ground forces in Europe to Today, Marshall raised the count to 340,000 ground troops and 60,000 air force troops.

He also commented that the total of ground force troops still would cover only the six divisions previously announced for the European buildup.

Kaesong Negotiations Into Dangerous Phase

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.
A.P. News Analyst

As the Kaesong negotiators begin seeking agreement on the actual physical machinery of a truce, the United Nations enters what has been for it the most dangerous and least successful phase in all of its dealing with ing out free gifts to the Communists should be well known by now.

Aside from that, however, the main point is whether the U.N. negotiators are determined to anticipate every possible result of agreements which may be reached at Kaesong, to eliminate right now all chances for renewed tension-creating exploitation. The reality is proven by the success of the strong stands already taken regarding troop withdrawals and admission of correspondents.

The U.S. is in good position, despite the seeming excitement about the continuing buildup of Chinese military strength in Korea.

GOOD FAITH

The army has just announced that, in order to display good faith in the truce negotiations, it passed up the opportunity to deal the enemy telling blows after his armies had been shattered in their last offensive.

This is presented as something of a virtue, without remembrance of what happened before Patton was stopped before Prague and Eisenhower before Berlin.

By those decisions, Czechoslovakia was surrendered to the Communist sphere, and Berlin became a focal point of east-west conflict.

If the improved Allied military position in Korea in June as compared with January is responsible for the Communist truce desire, then continuously improved positions should have contributed to better final terms.

There was no request and no agreement for a de facto cease fire while the settlement was being arranged.

SAVE LIVES

The U.S., of course, is vitally interested in saving lives—even to the point of disliking to kill the enemy unnecessarily. But the excessive ultimate costs of pass-

Keep-at-Home Policy Modified

Paratroops for Korea

OTTAWA, July 27 (CP)—Elements of Canada's elite paratroops are being moved into the replacement stream for Korea under a modification of the keep-them-at-home policy which provoked controversy a year ago.

They are men of the 23rd Airborne Brigade, the formation the cabinet refused to send out of the country in mid-1950 when the United Nations was desperately calling for manpower for Korea and the 23rd was the only big fighting unit Canada had available.

The stand the cabinet took was that the 23rd was earmarked and highly trained in parachute, airborne and Arctic warfare for the defense of Canada itself.

To meet overseas commitments, two new brigades, the 25th and 27th, were formed.

The 25th now is in Korea; the 27th is preparing to go to Europe. In the last year some of the 23rd's specialists have been posted to the 25th, but the main fighting formations have been left largely intact.

Within the last week or so, however, a 160-man company from the 1st Battalion of the Royal Canadian Regiment at Petawawa, Ont., was posted to the big Wainwright, Alta., base where a replacement pool for Korea is maintained.

It is unlikely that roughly equal contingents from the other two paratroop battalions—the 1st Battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry and the Royal 22nd Regiment—will be posted to Wainwright, too.

Plumbers End 17-Day Strike

VANCOUVER, July 27 (CP)—The 17-day strike of 500 Vancouver and New Westminster plumbers ended today when the workers voted to accept a company offer for settling their boundaries dispute.

The workers went on strike June 11 over extension of Vancouver city boundaries for the purpose of traveling time charges.

Members of the Plumbers and Pipefitters' Union, Local 170 (A.F.L.-T.L.C.), agreed today to extend city limits to include university lands and Burnaby as far east as Willingdon.

The offer had a rider attached providing for no other boundary extension for at least five years.

Prairie Mercury High

EDMONTON, July 27 (CP)—Today was generally the warmest day of the season on the prairies, with Medicine Hat's temperature soaring to a blistering 101 degrees.

The southeastern Alberta city had the distinction of being the warmest spot in Canada and the first centre on the prairies to record a temperature of 100 or more this year.

But it wasn't a record for Medicine Hat. The Dominion weather office here said it was 103 on the same date three years ago and the highest temperature ever recorded was 108.

It was so hot that city policemen were allowed to take off their tunics and white gloves. Close behind Medicine Hat was Estevan, Sask., which sweltered through a high of 97. Other prairie temperatures: Swift Current, Sask., 91; Lethbridge, 93; Winnipeg, 91; Regina, 90. It was comparatively cool at Edmonton and Calgary, which each reported a high of 78.

Highest temperature in the region was the 106 degrees at Glasgow, Mont., about 40 miles south of the Saskatchewan border.

A Permanent Contribution

THROUGH the years, Canada has been extremely well served in those branches of scientific research which are related to and in constant contact with the progressive advancement of knowledge in the world. In astronomy, especially, Canada has achieved an outstanding place in relation to the work of the International Astronomical Union, which pools the findings of all nations in recorded data respecting the stellar universe. Plaskett, Harper, Pearce, Petrie, Beals, McKellar and others are men who have not only served Canada ably in their time, but also known figures in the scientific world for their express contributions to the growing knowledge of the universe.

It is a service which is little enough known to the general public. Original researches conducted at Little Saanich hill may be announced at The Hague, Munich, London, New York or elsewhere long before they are known publicly in Canada. Yet, night after night, the great 72-inch reflector telescope of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here turns to a new place in the heavens. Its cameras pick up stellar spectra not seen by man before, and this related knowledge is added to the sum.

It will then, be an announcement of some importance to the scientific world that Dr. Joseph A. Pearce, director of the observatory, is being freed of administrative duties now to round out and complete his special researches in this field. He will be followed as director by Dr. R. M. Petrie, a well-known local son, to carry on a tradition as high and as brilliant in the field of pure science as the world has anywhere to offer. From Dr. Plaskett to Dr. Petrie these men have placed Canada in the front rank in astrophysical research, and in this highly specialized field Dr. Pearce's work has been one of distinction.

The Korean Talks

THE FIRST flush of enthusiasm over a cease-fire in Korea is being damped down. It has taken 11 meetings to agree merely on what to talk about, without getting near to brass tacks at all. At this pace Christmas could come and go and the guns will still be firing.

Of the desire for peace, at least in this particular sphere of conflict, there is perhaps no doubt. We of the West know that the United Nations would be glad to end the Korean war, and likely enough the Communists although for different reasons would be too. Why then isn't it possible to arrange an armistice in a matter of days instead of months?

Basically because it never is a war that has to be won but the peace arrangements that follow it. Russia, the Mephistopheles behind the scenes, knows this even better than does the West, which is one main reason why there has been no peace treaty with Germany. The actual cessation of the guns is in a sense less important than the era it ushers in.

The current armistice talks are wholly analogous to all the other post-war conferences that have taken place between Western powers and the Soviet Union or its satellites, and unfortunately precedent is not a hopeful guide. In these talks the allies are faced with a clever, unscrupulous and deceitful enemy who will twist any agreement to suit his purpose.

This is what makes the task of General Ridgway and his representatives a delicate and difficult one. An inch given means a mile lost. Without iron-clad guarantees, hitherto impossible to secure from Communists, the West dare not take words at their face value. Under such circumstances it is no wonder if negotiations sometimes appear to be futile.

General Ridgway has counselled against over-optimism, but for most people even this sound advice should be needless. So adamant is the Communist philosophy there is not much room for optimism on our part. In the present instance one can merely cross one's fingers and hope for the best.

Keeping the Highways Clear

PUBLIC Works Minister Carson's proposal to forbid or restrict building along the margins of new provincial arterial highways is one which is likely to receive strong support from all those interested in the planning of community and regional development along sound lines. Ribbon development, as it is called, has long been a major problem of highway authorities throughout North America, and there is increasing realization that it can be prevented only by stringent regulation.

In British Columbia today a new Class I highway costs nearly $100,000 a mile to build and pave, and public investment therein is largely wasted if marginal development is allowed to turn what was intended to be an express highway into another local road, a sort of midway of tourist cabins, hot-dog stands, gasoline stations, lunch counters and little business ventures similar to those cluttering existing main routes. One does not need to go beyond Vancouver Island to observe the strangling effect this crowding of the highways has on traffic movement.

For the most part ribbon development is economically unsound as well. The profits fondly imagined to be waiting at the highway's edge are largely an illusion, as many who have put their savings into small businesses there have found to their sorrow. In far too many places the view from a highway is ruined by seedy looking buildings, cheaply constructed in the first place and subsequently abandoned as a failure or allowed to run down because the owners could not make enough to keep them in repair.

Regulations such as those contemplated by Mr. Carson may encounter some resistance as an interference with one's right to set up in business where he chooses. A main highway where there was no road before is built at public expense, however, and represents an investment which should be protected.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Sir.—Victoria is a most beautiful city, but your traffic lights are most confusing. All should be in centre of intersection where you can see from one block to another. Wonder there aren't more accidents as fifty per cent of the people walk as in a dream. People obstruct the sidewalks, four or five stand in centre of sidewalk gossiping. Have noticed a few men walking and whirling their canes around, perhaps they think they are on a country road. Dangerous practice this. One fellow I jabbed in the ribs. Didn't he look black at me.

Wishing you every success in your new quarters. Have visited Victoria on and off for 32 years. Am now superannuated and have a little cottage near River Jordan, 45 miles West of Victoria. No traffic lights here. I have been a traffic police officer, so naturally these things come to my notice.

ALFRED DICKINSON.

HOSPITAL INSURANCE

Sir.—The B.C. Government does not hesitate to spend the taxpayers' hard-earned money for a very extensive press campaign in order to attempt to put over its hospital tax. In the latest emanation of the government apologists for the prevailing lack of hospital beds we are told, "Lack of money during depression days brought the construction of needed hospital beds to a standstill." A depression is exactly the right and proper time in which to initiate public works such as the construction of needed hospitals but our government entirely lacked the vision, courage and leadership to do anything of the sort at that time.

In spite of their universal and compulsory hospital tax the government say it is the communities' duties to provide their own hospitals. Exactly where do the government think we are to get the money in these days of soaring prices? Or the essential materials such as steel, cement, lumber, etc.? The British Columbia Government is now taxing us to the utmost limit for their precious hospital scheme, yet over 90 per cent of the tax collected from us is swallowed up for mere hospital maintenance, nothing is left for capital construction. As the hospitals are all still deeply in the red it is unlikely that loans will be obtainable for losing concerns.

Canadian boys will be returning seriously wounded from Korea. Are there sufficient beds for them and the civilian population?

Where are the government's glowing promises of free hospitals and security from expensive illness now? For a single person it costs at least $50 or $70 even to get near a hospital, then there are expensive doctors' bills and a whole list of extras not covered by our tax payments.

If the government's hospital scheme is really good why is it not voluntary?

JOHN KENNY.

U.S. CURRENCY RATE

Sir.—I have just picked up the paper outside my door and I am impressed after reading the editorial entitled, "There's a Bank on Every Corner." Mighty good, and I agree one hundred per cent. I made a purchase at a local store the other day of several dollars worth and handed the clerk American Express cheque for $10. I waited for my change for some time. Then the clerk returned, saying, "Here's your change, sir, and here's your premium." I said I did not want that, and she said I must take it.

Well, after all aren't we the same folks? Why, I ask you, is our money any better than yours? Personally, I'd like it better if there was no difference. I hope your editorial will bear fruit, for if United States tourists (I do not consider myself one, for this is my fourteenth summer in Victoria) can't take the suggestions you make and get their Canadian funds in a bank, there's something wrong with some Americans. Let's stop this delay and trouble for your people in the stores and restaurants, pronto.

I am a true American but I love Canada, especially British Columbia, and very specially Victoria. Yours for less fussing and more understanding.

Colorful Times

By FRANK KELLEY

A "BIT" item in coast newspapers a short time ago dealt with a poker game which had some bearing on the location of the original smelter on the site of the present Tadanac plant of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company.

The story of that poker session was current in the nineties. Details of it have slipped my memory; but it was typical of the times and had to do with the parade of men before Western Canada's greatest producer of metals began to function.

The principals were E. S. Topping, who was known later as "The Father of Trail," and a young engineer from Butte, Montana, named Augustus Heinze, who was to plan the first smelter to treat ores of Red Mountain, site of a number of prospects, including the La Rai, War Eagle and Centre Star.

The stakes had to do with where the smelter would be located and the treatment of Red Mountain ores. The Heinze interests were to treat 75,000 tons of Le Roi ore, the first 37,000 tons for $11 per ton and a lesser figure for the balance. The smelter was built and treated the first ores in 1896.

A slight built, wiry little personage, Topping had a fund of stories pertaining to the beginning of West Kootenay's mining excitement. It was most interesting to hear him tell how he became interested in the fortunes of the Le Roi and the part he played in locating that first smelter site at Trail, a small thing compared to the present plant.

"The Father of Trail" was the assistant mining recorder at Nelson in the early nineties. Never a prospector, he was ready for a gamble any time; and when two of the mining fraternity, Joe Morris and Joe Bourgeois, French Canadians, who were not too flush and had staked five claims altogether but could only record and hold four adjoining under the British Columbia Mineral Act, offered to include him in if he paid the recording fees, he agreed.

The price was $1250, the fee for recording the five claims. Not much for what turned out to be such a fortune-maker; but not extraordinary for the time and under circumstances identified with metal exploration in British Columbia's mining history.

Topping visited the scene on Red Mountain shortly after he invested his $1250 and without knowing too much about mineral indications from surface showings, selected the Lewisie, which he changed to Le Roi. Whether or not he ever made any money out of his gamble is another story; but he was instrumental in finding investors who did. Topping, after getting others interested, disposed of his holdings and watched greater gamblers make millions from the little group of claims.

These memories of Topping also recall the office where I first met him. It was occupied by James Murray, who lived at the Pacific Club and had his place of business on the floor below in the Pemberton Building. When Murray did business, I did not know. His place was the rendezvous of certain individuals he invited there and made at home.

His friendly affiliations included a wide circle of acquaintances. Among old-timers met there was Stuart Henderson, noted criminal lawyer and member of the Legislature, who was interested in mines and would tell you about "Too Much Gold Creek," which friends of Gun-a-noot would show him. To Murray's room came J. M. Kellie and Tom Taylor, members of the local House; Frank Slavin, bare-knuckle pugilist; Dave Bogle, editor of the Rossland Miner; Fred Ritchie, who surveyed Rossland and later Prince Rupert; John Houston, editor and M.L.A. and P. A. O'Farrell, colorful newspaperman whom Heinze introduced to Rossland, among others.

Reporting From Ottawa

HOWARD MEASURES is hard at work on his toughest task in 12 years: drafting a schedule for the Canadian visit of the future Queen and her Consort.

When Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh land at Quebec City on October 1, they'll find the ubiquitous Measures, impeccable in top hat and morning attire, waiting for them.

In his pocket he'll have a detailed timetable for their entire Canadian stay.

Measures, a lean, publicly-shy man who epitomizes the popular conception of the British career diplomat, is the government's official arranger. For years he headed the protocol section of the department of external affairs. If there were a question—and there have been many—as to how Canada should welcome and entertain visiting foreign bigwigs, everyone from the prime minister down knew what to do: "Ask Howard Measures."

Actually Measures is only one member of a five-man committee, headed by Under-Secretary of State Charles Stein, which Prime Minister St. Laurent appointed to take charge of all arrangements for the Royal visit. Other members are: Major-General H. F. G. Leyton, secretary to Governor-General Lord Alexander; H. F. Feaver, protocol officer of the department of external affairs; and Ross Martin, of the prime minister's office. Yet such has been Measures' experience in such matters that the task largely has been left to him.

He is having his hands full. Every city, town and hamlet in the country, it seems, wants Elizabeth and Philip to visit it. The committee has been flooded with letters, telegrams and telephone calls. In one town 2,000 miles from Ottawa, every civic leader from the mayor down either wired or telephoned Ottawa in an effort to make sure that that particular gem of the prairies wouldn't be left off the itinerary.

Many communities don't just want the Royal couple to visit. There are invitations galore to lay cornerstones, make speeches, and visit hospitals, universities and other institutions.

A lot of people will be disappointed, because it's beyond the bounds of physical possibility for Philip and his wife to accede even to one-tenth of the wishes of her future Canadian subjects in the scant month they'll be in Canada.

So far all that's known definitely is that they'll visit what the first official announcement described as the "principal centres" of Canada. That is taken to mean all the capital cities, plus Montreal and Vancouver.

Their Royal Highnesses will land at Quebec City October 1 and depart, possibly from Halifax, about November 4. In the intervening month they'll have to cross the country in each direction, spend a few days in the United States, and a few days holidaying on the Pacific coast.

Part of the journey will be made by train, and part by air. The days cannot be crammed too full, lest the Royal couple become exhausted. The Princess and her husband have requested the welcome accorded to them be "as simple as possible." In compliance with this wish, the goal of the tour committee is, as one member told me, "to let them see Canada and talk to Canadians, and let Canadians see them and talk to them, in so far as time allows."

Sad Story of Bertie Bartaby

(From The Montreal Gazette)

BERTIE Bartaby, professional rat-catcher of Colkirk, England, had to quit his job. He was a first-class man at it and he will be missed by both citizens and rats of Colkirk. Bertie liked his work, too, until the Government ordered him to fill in forms recording his "kills" at the end of each day. Bertie has never learned to write, so he resigned.

"It was a job I liked, but the forms were more than I could manage," he said.

Somerset Maugham recounted a somewhat similar tale in his recent movie, "Trio." In his story, however, when the verger was discharged because he was illiterate, he proceeded to become a successful businessman. His banker, considering his remarkable success without literacy, asked what heights he would have scaled had he known how to read and write. To which the businessman replied, "I would still be the verger."

It would be nice to think that something like that will happen to Bertie Bartaby, that the sudden spur of necessity will drive him forward to greater things than he would ever have dreamed. But it is hardly likely. Bertie is 60, for one thing. And business, in Britain today, requires even more filled-out forms than rat-catching. In fact, there isn't much of anything that can be done in Britain without filling out forms.

Poor Bertie! His declining years look black. Can he get the role without filling in an application form? Must he starve until he masters his A.B.C.'s? Perhaps they could give him a job keeping queues in line, shouting, "Line up here to get your forms, please." There must be a lot of those jobs around.

Fun, Fact and Fiction

A scientist explains that the yam which yields the cheap cortisone is inedible. Who can say, then, what wonder drug may lurk within the parsnip?

According to a British expert on Russia, Stalin too spends a lot of time running in circles. We await the word, that Russians invented baseball.

Two ghosts were playing canasta in the castle's turret dungeon when the door opened and a third ghost came in. A gust of wind blew the cards from the table and the game had to be started anew. After a while the door opened again and a fourth spook drifted in. The draft again mixed up the cards.

"For Pete's sake," one of the card-playing spectres exclaimed in anger, "why do you have to open the door? What do you think that keyhole is for?"

It was a golfer's funeral in Scotland. Around the grave stood his old partners and opponents, miserable in black ties and creased trousers. A strong wind hurled heavy cold rain at the mourners. Then from one of them came the consolation, "Och, Donal! Widna' ha' played this day, oneywey."

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

IN describing a tourist hotel at which I had stayed last week, a friend of mine said it was the kind of place where the dining-room smelled of stuffed owls and loons.

There was a time more than 25 and certainly less than 50 years ago, when the only opportunity the mass of mankind had of seeing wild creatures was on the walls, shelves ingrooms. It was the day of train travel. The overwhelming majority of city and town dwellers stayed put in the cities and towns. They went on rare and laborious picnics out to the suburbs of their native place. If they traveled at all, they traveled by train or steamboat. It was a highly restricted life. The only busy roads in and out of cities and towns were the railroads. All other roads had a pioneer look about them, and were regarded with horror by the citizenry.

Only the farmers and villagers knew the woods and fields. And when the urban population went trawling, they loved to see the evidences of the romance of the wilderness in the shape of stuffed deer heads on the hotel lobby walls, or a massive stuffed bear clinging to an upright varnished stump in the foyer. Around the plate rails of dining room and writing-room were stuffed owls, ducks, loons. Great blue herons and cranes stalked majestically on the top of cabinets and old-fashioned high sideboards.

Today, nothing need be stuffed. By motor car, the city and town dweller can penetrate the ends of the country, down the narrowest little dirt roads. The outboard motor makes a Champ plain out of every mechanic or ledger-keeper. More and more people are throwing on guns, and an unstuffed lion or an unmounted deer is worth so much to the hotel business that it is contributing generously to the conservation organizations. It was the motor car that unstuffed this generation, the motor car and its fellow-members of the internal combustion engine family.

Cosmic Dust

By THOMAS R. HENRY

Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance

WASHINGTON.—Fifty-foot-long cores from the sea bottoms are providing a record of more than 30,000,000 years of the earth's history.

These cores were collected four years ago, largely in the Pacific, by a Swedish deep-sea expedition, but extensive analysis was required before any conclusions could be drawn. The ocean floor is built up through the centuries in large measure from dust which falls from the sea surface, rather than from erosion from the land.

These cores were the subject of an exhibit before the British Royal Society a few weeks ago. Some fantastic anomalies have been uncovered. For example, the content of nickel is from three to four times that of the average for the land surface. Thus it could not possibly have come from land deposits.

The only logical explanation, according to Dr. E. J. Opik, of the University of Dublin, who has studied the samples, is that the deep ocean floor deposits are made up largely of cosmic dust which comes from the outer edge of the solar system.

It has long been observed that meteorites contain considerably more nickel, on the average, than the crust of the earth. The dust must be considered as consisting of essentially the same material as the shooting stars.

Opik calculates that the amount of this invisible dust is so great that about three feet of ocean floor will be built up in about two million years. For the past million years, the cores indicate, there has been an increase in the amount of cosmic dust hitting the sea surface. This may be accounted for by the assumption that the solar system is passing through a vast cosmic dust cloud. Very little of this dust, actually only the smallest particles, moving at the greatest speeds, reaches the earth. Most of it is drawn in and captured by the gravity of the outer planets.

With the Classics

On Beauty

What is beauty, saith my sufferings, then?

If all the pens that ever poets held Had fed the feeling of their masters' thoughts.

And every sweetness that inspir'd their hearts.

Their minds and muses on admired themes;

If all the heavenly quintessence they still

From their immortal flowers of poesy, Wherein as in a mirror we perceive The highest reaches of a human wit—

If these had made one poem's period, And all combin'd in beauty's worthiness.

Yet should there hover in their restless heads

One thought, one grace, one wonder, at the least,

Which unto words no virtue can digest.

—Christopher Marlowe, (From Tamburlaine)

Deep Cove People Like Water Skis

A group of young people at Deep Cove have become enthusiastic water skiers.

While the sport is not new in the south and has been popular for several years on island lakes, it is now coming into its own in the waters of Patricia Bay.

Water skiing, like its tamer sister sport, aquaplaning, has its full share of thrills and spills. Not to mention chills, for contact with sea water in this region at low tide provides more of a shock than the warmer lake water.

DEMONSTRATE

Mr. and Mrs. Don Crysdale, Shirley Cameron, Mrs. H. K. Hare and Ed Liersch demonstrated how it was done from the lake home at Towner Point, near Patricia Bay.

Mr. Hare ran the motor boat, towing the skiers at a spanking 30 miles an hour. Any faster is too hard on the skier if he happens to lose balance and hit the water.

Most thrilling of all is the ski jump, built on to a float a hundred yards or so offshore. The jump is first watered, then the skier is on his own. A very satisfactory "smack" echoes as the jumper hits the water again.

Water skis, which are shorter and broader than snow skis, are fitted with pliable rubber foot-holds.

TAKE-OFF

The take-off to become "water-borne" takes more practice than the actual skiing. Method is to sit on the float or dock with the legs in the water up to the knees holding the tow-ropes. The skier takes off in a crouching position, standing erect when the momentum of the tow makes it possible for the skier to float.

According to the skiers this is more fun than the aqua plane, as skis are far more manoeuvrable and, on the feet of a proficient skier, can be used for difficult acrobatics.

Full Conversion of Relief Ship Considered for Weather Service

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

Conversion of the former Royal Canadian Navy weather ship St. Stephen along lines of the transport department's weather ships St. Catharines and Stonetown is being considered, it was learned yesterday.

Since the transport department began operating weather ships out of Victoria, the St. Stephen has been tied up as a relief ship. So far she has not been called out. She did not undergo the extensive conversion applied to the other two ships.

Complete conversion of the St. Stephen would cost several hundred thousand dollars. Because of a federal economy drive, it is unlikely this could be done now.

But a start may be made soon, according to a spokesman for the transport department. Final decision rests with Ottawa.

HAPPY OCCASION

One of the happiest occasions in the life of Arthur Barnes, Victoria's blind and one-handed boat builder, took place Thursday afternoon.

"It was something I had waited for all my life," he said, reviewing a three-hour sail aboard Dick James' brand-new 42-foot sloop Lalanga II.

The sloop sailed from the Royal Victoria Yacht Club in Cadboro Bay to the Fiddle Reef light-house. Art was in almost complete command of the boat. Words couldn't describe his joy.

Art is to be one of Lalanga's crewmen in a forthcoming race. Work on Art's own 14-foot sail-boat is going well. He's fitting the deck beams now. He plans having the craft in the water early next year.

Art's friends have offered to help him with his boat, but he insists on doing the job by himself. He is determined to prove that blindness and the loss of a hand needn't prevent anyone from accomplishing anything he sets out to do.

Art's boatbuilding work has been greatly helped by the many Victorians who contributed funds to buy him a new artificial hand.

SAILORS POPULAR

Officers and men of the cruiser Ontario made a name for themselves during the ship's recent visit to Oakland, Calif.

Visiting Victoria yesterday was J. F. Blakeney, commander of the Oakland American Legion post. He served on the special committee which arranged entertainment for the Canadians.

During the four days the Ontario was there, the sailors were treated to ball games, dances, picnics and sightseeing tours.

"The people of Oakland felt they couldn't have been hosts to a finer bunch of men," Mr. Blakeney said. "They certainly were well behaved at all times, and they seemed to appreciate everything that was done for them."

CADETS ARRIVE

The four Canadian sea cadets who are going to explore the canals of Britain and France in a home-made 32-foot cabin cruiser arrived in Liverpool yesterday.

Notes Boost In Revenue Of Post Office

Complaints over reduction of residential mail deliveries to one a day have died down. W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, said here yesterday. He was in Victoria on a nation-wide inspection tour.

He said that the post office re-assigned 900 workers after the economy reduction in service. Most went into defense work, or related jobs, he said.

He called post office revenue an accurate barometer, and noted that postal revenues were up 60 per cent in five years, with a 15 to 18 per cent boost last year alone.

He said Canada was a world pioneer in "all up" mail service, which means that all first-class mail is delivered by air.

ANCIENT DANCER

The bronze figure of a dancer and some amulets recovered from excavations indicate India had dancers 5000 years ago.

Accident Victims Rest Comfortably

CONDITION of four persons injured in a Sooke Road accident Wednesday night was reported satisfactory by hospital officials last night.

St. Joseph's Hospital authorities said Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Bing, R.R. 2, were resting comfortably and in satisfactory condition.

Victor W. Jopp, Luxton Road, and Carl H. Baillie, 730 Vancouver, were in satisfactory condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Corvettes Off On Long Trip Behind Tug

VANCOUVER, July 27 (CPI)—Three Canadian ships, sold to German whaling interests, started the long voyage to Hamburg today in tow of a sturdy Dutch tug.

The 200-foot tug Zwarte Zee, reported to be the world's biggest, is towing three former corvettes, Nanaimo, Moncton and Shediac, to their new owners. They will be converted to Antarctic whalers.

The big tug got away at high tide during the afternoon, starting the longest tow ever attempted from a west coast port.

Blood Donations Total 1,000 Pints

More than 1,000 pints of blood were collected by the Red Cross in the three-day drive which ended yesterday.

Civilian donors contributed 470 pints of blood, the services, mostly navy, contributed another 608 pints to bring the grand total to 1,078 pints.

OLD TERM

In the ancient Roman armies a legion consisted of about 6,000 men divided into 10 cohorts.

Victorian Kept in U.S. For Advanced Training

CPO William E. Noel, R.C.N. of Victoria, who recently graduated with honors from a course in radiography at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and later served in naval hospitals on both coasts. He was serving in the U.S. Naval Medical School, Bethesda, Md., has been assigned to the school for an additional year of training as an instructor in the subject, it was announced by naval headquarters in Ottawa yesterday.

CPO Noel's training period was extended at the request of the commanding officer of the establishment, who told Canadian naval headquarters in Ottawa yesterday.

was one of the most outstanding members of his class and had demonstrated exceptional interest and application in all phases of the work.

AVERAGE 95.6

In the course recently completed, CPO Noel attained a final average of 95.6 per cent.

Born at Port Simpson, B.C., he joined the navy in 1940 as a probationary sick berth attendant. He served in naval hospitals at Halifax and Esquimalt before going to sea in H.M.C.S. Prince Robert in 1941.

The next year he took training in radiography at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, and later served in naval hospitals on both coasts. He was serving in the U.S. Naval Medical School, Bethesda, Md., has been assigned to the school for an additional year of training as an instructor in the subject, it was announced by naval headquarters in Ottawa yesterday.

Diplomats in Washington say strong opposition has arisen among signers of the North Atlantic Defense Treaty to a United States proposal for extending the treaty to Greece and Turkey.

American officials hope to have the differences ironed out in time for Big Three foreign ministers' talks tentatively planned in the United States capital the second week in September. A meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council is under consideration for Ottawa the following week.

A major objection to admission of Greece and Turkey is a feeling among some European nations that the basic concept of the treaty is embracing a community of nations of common interests around the North Atlantic ocean would be impaired by adding the two nations.

Britain's Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell said in London yesterday the west must return to the point where Russia will come to the conference table and agree to conditions which will promote world peace. The west, he added, was still a long way from parity with the Russians.

Another London dispatch reports that King George, who has been convalescing at Sandringham will return to the capital Monday for his first official engagement since the end of May—an investiture to be held at Buckingham Palace Tuesday.

In Calgary Carl O. Nickle, publisher of the Daily Oil Bulletin, has been nominated Progressive Conservative candidate in the forthcoming Calgary West by-election. Mr. Nickle's name is familiar to readers of The Colonist's finance page, for which he writes a weekly oil report.

Reports reaching New Delhi, India, from the Tibetan frontier, say the 16-year-old Dalai Lama is on the way back to his country's capital at Lhasa "virtually a prisoner of the pro-Communist elements of his government."

Edgar Malin, 43, a Vancouver man who left oil-troubled Iran by plane about 10 days ago, told newsmen in Edmonton yesterday that it's dangerous for a white man to leave his ship in that country. Junior assistant engineer on tankers running out of Iran, Malin said he and shipmates were attacked and molested frequently by Arabs and by Iranian soldiers and sailors.

Costs

L'Action Catholique, daily newspaper in Quebec City, has announced that due to increased newsprint costs and postal rates, it no longer will publish a Saturday edition for its 80,000 subscribers.

Ontario control over house rents—both prices and tenure—look on a permanent aspect yesterday, says a Toronto dispatch. New regulations free new housing built since Jan. 1, 1947, from control as to price, but provide security of tenure for tenants. Both price and tenure controls apply to all other housing with provision for rental increases to meet rising costs of property maintenance.

In Washington, the U.S. Senate has approved an 11-month extension of wage-price controls, and opened the way for possible price boosts on a wide range of commodities except meat and farm products.

However, U.S. government controllers in Washington have drawn up an order which will result in a five to six-cent increase in prices of pork chops, slaughterers a percentage increase in wholesale prices of pork loins.

U.S. federal judge L. E. Goodman in San Francisco has ordered that bail be fixed at $50,000 for each of seven San Francisco Communist leaders arrested Thursday by the F.B.I.

Toronto's fire chief Albert Steen described a fire that gutted the basement and ground floor of a downtown warehouse as "the city's 'most punishing' of his 47 years of service. Smoke and fumes knocked out 30 firemen fighting the $150,000 blaze, and another 40 required strong whiffs of oxygen.

Los Angeles authorities have announced the arrest of Gordon T. Raitt, 39, at Amarillo, Tex., for allegedly accepting kickbacks and a home freezer in connection with meat contract awards for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Mayor Sidney Parsons of Edmonton has estimated that from 40 to 50 big conventions have been held in the Alberta capital in the last 10 years because of lack of hotel space in the city.

Oddments

Out from San Francisco have sailed—aboard ship—1,500 baby fish, accompanied by two "baby sisters" to keep them from becoming seahorse. The fish, destined for Guam, are intended to annihilate a horde of mosquitoes that have become a menace on that Pacific

Victoria Situation Still Bright, Employment Office Reports

Victoria's employment situation continues to hold a good level with a steady number of vacancies reported to the local National Employment office.

Total number of persons registered for work again showed a slight increase, which also brought the figures of just over 200. This increase was also reflected in the number of persons applying for unemployment insurance benefits.

However, the shortage of skilled workers in many occupations is becoming more pronounced both locally and in other parts of the province.

Some of the trades quoted are also taking on helpers, but in general the supply of semi-skilled and unskilled workers has been adequate to meet the demand.

Women's section has had increased orders for sales persons with specialized abilities, and cooks, particularly for summer resorts.

Demand for experienced stenographers continues to be urgent and there has been an increased demand for typists.

Many vacancies are available for junior bank clerks with Grade XII education as a minimum requirement. The demand for domestic workers, high for many months, has fallen off somewhat during the holiday season but there has been an increase in the number of vacancies for general help at summer resorts.

One of the guests of honor was Arthur Lismer, member of the Group of Seven and celebrated Canadian artist, Mrs. Ina D. Unthoff, prominent local artist, also attended the unveiling.

"Art must express all aspects of human life," said Dr. Ewing in his opening remarks. "As a true Victorian I accept the story of Caddy in fact, only outlandish personally, but many of our citizens, of the utmost sobriety, have certainly viewed him. My belief in Caddy is therefore strictly scientific."

Professor Arnaud Reid of London University unveiled the mural.

Among those present at the unveiling ceremony, formally opened by Victoria College Principal Dr. J. M. Ewing, were Miss Sara Spencer, Mr. and Mrs. Ken McAllister, Mrs. D. Whitehead and Joyce Whitehead, Shirley Wallace, Robin Hush, Earle Morrison, Rhonda Stirling, Mr. and Mrs. J. Price and Ald. and Mrs. Waldo Skilling.

Culbertson on Bridge

North made an excellent bid for his partner in today's deal, but South muffed the play. Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:
 South 1 C West 3 D North 6 C East 3 S
 4 D Pass 6 C Pass

North could not afford to enter the bidding over West's three diamonds, even with excellent club support, because his hand as a whole was very weak; but when South announced, via his four-diamond cue bid, that he had a powerhouse, the complexion of North's hand changed radically. Now the fine trump support took on extra value and importance, and since North might have had to bid five clubs, with nothing but length in that suit and even without a picture card in his hand, his actual club holding warranted the jump to the slam.

Unfortunately, however, South gave up the hand without even a struggle! West opened a low heart and after mournfully surveying the dummy, South said:

Lillooet—Truly a Sportsman's Paradise

Lillooet, formerly Cayoosh, is about 215 miles from Vancouver. An ideal spot for a restful vacation... the areas in and around Lillooet are well-known for their fine fishing, hunting.

The first view of Lillooet on a bench on the west bank of the river is strikingly picturesque... backed by the steep canyon of Cayoosh creek, just beyond which lies lovely Seton Lake.

Between Lillooet and Clinton the road soars over majestic Pavillion Mountain... this cumb may be avoided by a longer route through Marble Canyon.

Whether the traveler goes by Cache Creek and returns by Lillooet or vice versa, the southern gateways of the famous Cariboo Road offer scenes of beauty and grandeur beyond description.

opened at Yankee Stadium and Chicago's battling White Sox saw a 4-3 lead dissipate into a 3-1 setback. With further play impossible, the score reverted to the eighth inning.

New York's Casey Stengel protested when Bill McGowan tossed G. McDougald out of the game when the rookie infielder went to the mound for a few words with pitcher Tom Morgan, facing a pinch-hitter with two on and none out.

With the bases loaded, three runs in and one out in the top of the ninth, the clouds really

FAN FARE

McGowan apparently waived McDougald out for delaying the game and the irate Stengel entered a formal protest.

A few minutes later, after Floyd Baker had singled home the run to make it 3-2, the first hard rain stopped the game. Chicago manager Paul Richards protested that the umpires and ground crew were slow in covering the field, later protested officially on the grounds that the Yankees had stalled.

However, the game resumed 26 minutes later and continued for another 15 minutes. In that time, the Sox scored two more runs and had the bags loaded and Stengel had followed Morgan with Joe Ostrowski, Spec Shea, Jack Kramer and Ed Lopat. Rain ended it for keeps there, one hour and 13 minutes after the inning started.

BOONE BEATS BOSOX

Meanwhile, Boston Red Sox were tied for the runner-up berth by Cleveland Indians, who won the first of the crucial three-game series, 3-2.

Home runs accounted for a 2-2 deadlock in the ninth with second circuit smash. Previously, Al Rosen hit one out of the park and pinch-hitter Charlie Maxwell tied it up with a two-run homer for Boston in the seventh.

DODGERS KEEP ON

In the National League, Brooklyn Dodgers rallied to overcome a 9-3 deficit and down St. Louis Cardinals, 12-9, on Roy Campanella's three-run homer in the ninth.

Cowichan Bay Reports Good Fishing

Cowichan Bay should present a busy scene over the weekend. Word was received yesterday that a new run of big spring salmon provided the best sport of the season and it is hoped that the season is now in full swing.

Lucky anglers out yesterday morning got plenty of action. From Ordano's Boat, the reports that E. C. Dickens, T. Vangel and R. P. Peterson, Duncan, Don Campbell, Cowichan Bay and Mrs. E. Gaunt, Cobble Hill, were among those who found fishing excellent.

Vangel boated salmon weighing 24 and 19 pounds; Mrs. E. Gaunt had three between 21 and 23 pounds; Campbell landed 31 and 26-pounders and Dickens had a 29.

Daybreak is the best starting time, plugs the preferred lure.

McNamee Completes Sweep Of Swim Meet's Sprint Events

(From C.P. Reports)

Gerry McNamee of Vancouver last night completed a sweep of sprint events in the Canadian swimming championships at North Vancouver's Mahon Park Pool by winning the men's 400-yard freestyle final.

McNamee turned back Toronto's Jerry Mark as early as the third lap and won in 4:26.1, just eight tenths of a second off the Canadian record held by Allan Gilchrist of Ocean Falls. Gilchrist failed to place in the final.

McNamee won the 100-yard freestyle Wednesday and the 200-yard freestyle on Thursday.

TOPS OWN MARK

Fifteen-year-old Shirley Campbell of Fergus, Ont., twice broke her own Canadian record for the junior women's 400-yard freestyle. In an afternoon heat she clipped 3.5 seconds from the mark of 5:17.2, which she set at Hamilton three weeks ago, and lowered it another seven-tenths of a second to 5:13 in the final six hours later.

Leo Vigant, Montreal, took a wide lead in defense of his Canadian diving championship. At the completion of the six compulsory dives, he had accumulated 214.2 points against 212.7 for Bill Patrick, Vancouver.

Flam, Mulloy Into Semi-Final Of British Tilt

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y., July 27 (AP)—Herbert Flam and Gardner Mulloy moved into the semi-final round of the Southampton Invitation tennis tournament today.

The 37-year-old Mulloy, fourth ranking player of the country, defeated Hamilton Richardson, 17-year-old U.S. junior champion, 6-2, 4-6, 9-7, 11-9. Flam whipped Jacques Grigry of Los Angeles 7-5, 6-0, 6-0.

Tomorrow, in the semi-finals, Flam will play Rudge Platt, 1950 Wimbledon and French champion. Mulloy will oppose Tony Trabert, who put out the national champion, Arthur Larsen, Friday.

Cup Playdowns On Next Month

St. Andrews, B.C. soccer champions, will meet the Alberta titlists in the quarter-finals of the Dominion Cup playdowns at Callister Park next month.

The best-of-three series will begin August 18, with the second game August 20. Third game, if necessary, will be played August 21.

Calgary and Fernie, B.C., are currently playing off for the right to meet Edmonton for the Alberta title. The Dominion final will be played in Montreal in September.

Singles Final Pits Willey Against Miller

VANCOUVER, B.C., July 27 (CP)—Mervin Miller of Pasadena, Calif., and unseeded Paul Willey of Vancouver will meet tomorrow in the men's singles final of the Western Canada Lawn Tennis Championships.

Willey scored a resounding 6-1, 7-5, 6-4 victory over fellow townsman Jim Macken in one half of the semi-finals today. Miller, seeded No. 1, eliminated Joe Blatchford of California.

In the women's singles final, Nancy Miller of San Mateo, Calif., will meet Connie Bowan of Hollywood.

Commercial League Rejects Inter-City Hockey

Victoria's Commercial Hockey League last night turned thumbs down on the suggestion that it sponsor a Victoria team in the proposed new Inter-City Hockey League.

After a lengthy, and sometimes heated, discussion, team managers and C.H.L. officials decided instead to continue the six-team mercantile league and announced that efforts would be made to improve the calibre of hockey.

It was the second time that the C.H.L. had decided not to back a Victoria team in the proposed new alliance with teams from Nanaimo, Kerrisdale and Vancouver. At a meeting in Vancouver last week, C.H.L. officials asked for a week to reconsider when they were informed that there was another bid from Victoria for the franchise in the new league.

The bid was made by Don Harkin, past president of the C.H.L. and vice-president at that time. Harkin, who did not attend the meeting last night, handed in his written resignation Monday.

Queried last night, Harkin stated that there had been no change in his plans and that he was definitely going ahead with his previously-announced intention of placing a Victoria team in the proposed inter-city setup.

Bluebird Boss Takes Mound To Hurl 7-4 Surprise Win

at the plate and Charlie Sansbury hit a grand slam home to climax the rally.

Bluebirds made it definite by adding two runs in the sixth on a pair of walks and singles by Ray Brookbank and Tim Walker.

Tomorrow, B.C. Forest Products will play an exhibition game against the undefeated

Lady Smith I.W.A. team. The visitors have won 18 league games and six exhibitions. Bob Allen, winner of 16 league contests and all the exhibitions, will oppose Bud Ross on the mound tomorrow.

A's Trimmed at Salem, Indians Take Loop Lead

Salem Senators have been a tough club for the Victoria Athletics all season. Last night they made it 11 wins in 16 games before a Salem crowd of over 4,000 by coasting to an easy 8-1 triumph.

The result reversed the usual procedure. In previous games between the two teams, the A's had managed a 4-3 edge at Salem, lost on their home grounds, 1-7.

McNULTY EASES IN

Ray McNulty, the steady right hander, wasn't bothered too much after his mates climbed on Victoria's Bill Osborn for six runs in the first two innings. The losers made six hits, none of which figured in the scoring. Two walks, an infield out and an outfield fly was the extent of the Victoria scoring.

Dick Faber's three-run homer in the four-run second inning was the blow which ruined Victoria hopes.

SNYDER BEATEN

Meanwhile, attention turned to the W.I.L. was focused on Spokane where the Indians climaxed a long chase by jumping into first place. They uplanted Vancouver Capilanos, who went down to a 4-2 defeat in the first game of a four-game series.

Bob Snyder, Vancouver ace, was balked for the second time

City Bantams Face Nanaimo

Two inter-city games feature next week's minor lacrosse play. On Wednesday night at Memorial Arena, Victoria all-star bantams will meet Nanaimo bantams before the Inter-City Lacrosse League game between Victoria Shamrocks and North Shore Indians. Thursday night, Nanaimo and Jokers will meet in a senior "B" exhibition game.

Schedule:

Monday—Pex wee section: Pergewood vs Oak Bay, 7:30. Baxcomb vs Fairfield, 8:30. Junior all-star workout, 2:30.

Tuesday—Juvenile: 7:30, Oak Bay vs Esquimalt, 8:30. Junior: Jokers vs Pex wee, 8:30.

Wednesday—Nanaimo bantams vs Victoria bantams, 7:30.

Thursday—Senior "B" exhibition, Nanaimo vs Jokers, 8:30.

All games are at Memorial Arena.

Navy, West Heat Upset As Semi-Finals Started

The two top teams in the Senior "B" Men's Softball League were upset last night as a best-of-three semi-final series began for the city title.

West Heat, league winners, were trounced 10-1 by Esquimalt Athletic Association, and Navy, second-place finishers, bowed to B.C. Forest Products, 5-4. Second games will be played Monday.

West Heat were stopped cold by the four-hit pitching of Ted Minnis, picking up only an unearned run in the second inning.

FIVE ERRORS

Esquimalt, aided by five West Heat errors, rapped Art Dowse and Joe Oliver for 11 hits. Leading 3-1 after four innings, the Suburbanites sailed the game away with a six-run outburst in the fifth. Four hits, a walk and an outfield error, which permitted Ken Druce to go all the way, did the damage.

B.C. Forest Products scored an unearned run in the top of the seventh to break a 4-4 deadlock and gain the verdict over Navy. Day's fly ball was dropped in the outfield and he completed the circuit on MacDonald's single, his third of the game.

Sailors had fought back in 34 and 41 deficits to gain the tie.

BASEBALL International Championship PORT ANGELES STAGS Vs. VICTORIA EAGLES Saturday, July 28

Afternoon Game 2:30 p.m. Night Game 8:00 p.m. Admission Adults 50c, Children 25c. Royal Athletic Park.

Four anglers from the Cowichan Bay area are shown here with the large fish they caught yesterday. The fish was taken by one of the anglers, who is standing in the center of the group. The other three anglers are standing on either side of him, all smiling and looking at the camera. The fish is being held up by the central angler, and its head is pointing towards the camera. The background shows the boat and some other people on board.

A person in a costume, possibly a clown or a character, is shown here. The person is wearing a white outfit with a large, dark, circular mask or headpiece. They are standing on a stage or in a performance area, and their arms are outstretched. The background is dark, and there are some lights visible.

Bonner Advocates Bridges Over Strait

DUNCAN, July 27 (CP)—Immediate study was advocated here of a direct road and railway link between Vancouver Island and the B.C. mainland by way of Seymour Narrows, using islands as stepping stones.

The plan was advocated by G. R. Bonner, president of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

He told a meeting here yesterday that the plan would link up with the government-owned Pacific Great Eastern Railway. He also advocated ultimate development of Port Alberni as a major west coast deepsea port.

"The government recently canceled a railway reserve on land held for possible development of this route."

Mr. Bonner in advocating the

City Once Welcomed Mills, Operator Says

City council's attitude towards mill operators is a far cry from that of 25 years ago "when we were welcomed with open arms," R. B. Horton, president of Horton Cedar Manufacturing Company, Point Ellice, said in a letter to council yesterday.

Mr. Horton was referring to the city's complaints about the alleged smoke and cinder nuisance. He said the city originally promised "the land required at a nominal rate, modified taxes for several years, water service with six-inch main delivered to our property, city road property black smoke is poor combustion... No industry wants to make soot or cinders. It is dangerous and destructive to its own property and product," he said.

The mill owner said his mill's furnaces are over large. He contended his stack does not throw soot or cinders, but does emit smoke when the quality of fuel is not perfect. Any cinders which may come from the mill's burner, he added, drop not more than 75 to 100 yards from its base.

NO NEIGHBORS

"Now look at our geographical position. We have no near neighbors, residents, industries nor exposures that could cause anyone a particle of trouble," said Mr. Horton.

He said he intends to reconstruct the mill's ducts, but pointed out that both shingle mills in Victoria are operating at a loss and, except for throwing about 100 men out of work, would probably be better off to shut down.

W. K. McCarter of McCarter's Shingle Company also wrote to the city outlining his plans for reducing smoke and cinders. Due to recent expenditures on smoke and cinder abatement equipment, he said, 95 per cent of the cinders are being extracted. Future plans call for installation of a larger boiler, and advice is being sought regarding the desirable size for the ducts and chimney.

HEAVY EXPENSE

"We hope the council and public will realize the importance of the lumber and shingle industry in the Greater Victoria area."

That any improvement in present conditions can only be done by careful planning and at a very heavy capital expenditure, said Mr. McCarter.

Lester Drysdale of Drysdale Sash and Door Company wrote to the city asking if any complaints

For Cold Cuts

Wonderful—with cold cuts is this special horseradish sauce. To four tablespoons of freshly grated horseradish add a tablespoon of vinegar, a tablespoon of sugar, half a teaspoon of salt, and a dash of white pepper. Whip stir the horseradish mixture into it. Chill before serving if you wish.

This also is good served very cold with very hot bacon—the contrast of temperature and flavor is truly epicurean.

Woman Finds Dozen Eggs Double Value

Mrs. Edith Bennett, 2518 Blackwood, has read all about the goose that laid the golden egg, but the bird she would really like to meet is the hen that lays eggs with double yolks.

Mrs. Bennett is delighted with the performance of the unknown hen that lays the double dividends.

This week Mrs. Bennett bought a dozen eggs in town. Each morning since she has broken two or three eggs into her frying pan, and each time the eggs have been double yolked.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - By Howard Gais

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PARACHUTE

Everyone on Uncle Wiggily's raft was watching the rabbit gentleman slide down the Shoot the Chute which he had made as another amusement. The slide was high and long. It reached from the merry-go-round to the shooting gallery of Uncle Butter the goat.

The shooting gallery was near one end of the raft. So, of course, the end of the long slide was also near the end of the raft, close to the water of Frog Pond.

Uncle Wiggily had insisted that he must be the first to try the long, high slide.

"I want to make sure it will be safe for the children," said the rabbit gentleman.

So he had climbed the ladder to the top of the slide. Then, as I told you in yesterday's story, he sat down on the smooth boards, gave himself a push, "and down he slid—faster, faster and faster!"

It was Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy who first saw Uncle Wiggily's danger. The muskrat lady housekeeper shouted:

"Uncle Wiggily is going too fast! He can't stop. The end of the slide is so close to the edge of the raft that Uncle Wiggily will slide right off into Frog Pond!"

"Avast and belay! That's just what he will do!" barked Bosun the old sea dog.

"And if Wiggily plops into Frog Pond, he'll get wet and catch cold again!" bleated Uncle Butter.

"Why did we put the end of the slide so close to the water?"

"I say, old chappie—you delicious chunk of Swiss cheese!" said Mr. Turfbog, the English bulldog. "You helped make the slide. Why didn't you think how dangerous it was to put the jumping-off end so close to the water? Why didn't you?"

"Well, if it comes to that, Turfy, you delicious old Yarmouth bloater," said Uncle Butter, "why didn't you?"

"Quite right, old dear! Quite right!" said Mr. Turfbog. "We all made a mistake and now Uncle Wiggily is going to suffer for it. He is almost at the end of the slide. In another moment he will jolly well be off the slide and into Frog Pond."

"Shiver my rubber boots!" barked Bosun. "I had better get the lifeboat ready! Come on, Turfy and Butter!"

"All right, Bosun! I'll be with you as soon as I finish eating this piece of Swiss cheese," said Uncle Butter.

"We can't wait for that!" barked Bosun. "We got to hurry!"

"It won't take me long to eat this cheese," said the grocery goat. "It has a lot of big holes in it and I don't have to eat them. There! I've finished it!"

"Then let's launch the lifeboat!" barked Bosun.

"Wait! Wait!" squeaked Nurse Jane. "I think something is going to happen. Uncle Wiggily may yet be saved from Frog Pond."

"Avast and belay! How can anything save him now?" said Bosun.

"Bless my balloons!" barked Mr.

PAID OFF

"Yes, you wanted industry, payroll, employment and future municipal, provincial and Dominion taxes. This we did, and I am sure it has paid off well for the community."

Until two months ago he continued, his mill never heard a complaint about smoke and cinders.

"Of course, we make smoke—no one can burn cedar refuse... without making smoke. Please know practically every cedar log we burn is of different density of moisture, density of grain, bark, resin content, rot and, so forth. Almost momentarily the drafts of our furnaces change due to the shifting and varying velocity of Victoria's winds," said Mr. Horton.

NO MARKET

He stressed that his mill has no market for refuse, there being no way to dispose of it except by burning. A small amount is given away, and the taker blessed.

"It is ridiculous for intelligent people... to think that we are not doing our best to alleviate the nuisance. For our own good,
